NOTE TO ALL FESTIVAL ATTENDEES WHO WILL BE CAMPING ON THE FAIRGROUNDS

The Fairfield County Agricultural Society has authority over the Fairfield Co. fairgrounds and as such, set the rules and fees for camping on the fairgrounds. Standing Stone Dulcimer Club contracts with the Society to collect camping fees and transfer those fees to the Society. All camping fees go back to the Agricultural Society. Here are the descriptions of the camping units and fees as described by the Society.

RVs: Any unit with wheels: which includes motor homes, travel trailers, pop-ups, vans, cars, etc. This also includes any type of tent connected to any of the above mentioned vehicles. Cars & SUVs with tents attached are considered RVs. The camping fee is $15.00 per night.

Tents: The camping fee is $5.00 per night.

For your convenience, there are many electrical outlets in the area we are using and many water outlets. There is also an RV dump station at the west end of the racetrack.

You may set up to camp as early as Thursday, Sept 14 and camp through Sunday, Sept 17. All dogs must be leashed.

Butch Ross & Trish Wileman

As a touring singer/songwriter, Butch was given a mountain dulcimer as a present. Before long it became his instrument of choice. His new CD, Found Objects, is comprised of “songs he’s previously recorded for various side projects, compilations and one off musical divergences that struck a particularly necessary nerve in his body”. He plays with finesse and energy.

Trish has performed leading roles in theatre, opera and musical theatre. She is also an accomplished director. “She has a heart for performers and finds her passion in encouraging individuals to discover, cultivate and enjoy the gift of their own voice, in singing and acting.

Butch and Trish have taught workshops together on the Art of The Singer/Songwriter at Kentucky Music Week.
